

Exmouth Local Nature Reserve

Voluntary exclusion zone Sept - Dec

Please be aware that a voluntary exclusion zone, developed with local kite surfers, is in effect between September and December to protect visiting water fowl. See map for details.

The Exe estuary is an internationally important winter feeding ground for birds such as brent geese and wigeon. Up to 25,000 birds rely on this estuary each year for their survival.

Please help us keep the estuary a special place for both birds and people.
